

Slip and Fall

1. Is the store responsible if I slip and hurt myself?

The store is only responsible if it is at fault. If the store staff caused a dangerous condition that caused your injuries, or knew or should have known of a dangerous condition before an accident and did not take proper steps to fix it, the store may be responsible.

2. If I slip and hurt myself at a store and the store is at fault, what should I do?

It would be a good idea for you to record the names, addresses and telephone numbers of any witnesses; ask the manager of the store if you can submit a report; and, if necessary, seek medical attention and call an attorney.